Fly-tippers face beefed-up fines

FLY-TIPPERS who flout the law and blight the borough's streets are facing increased fines.

Haringey Council has raised the current on-the-spot fine of £80 to £400. The £400 fixed penalty notice, with no discount for paying early, is the latest measure to tackle those who dump unwanted furnishings, building materials and household rubbish on the streets.

It costs Haringey taxpayers £3million a year to clear up the unsightly mess which affects the quality of life of residents.

"People are sick and tired of fly-tipping and its associated cost to our taxpayers," said Peray Ahmet, the council's cabinet member for the environment.

"We're working around the clock with our partners Veolia to make our streets cleaner and our new £400 fine sends a clear message that we are fighting back against fly-tippers," she added.

Ms Peray is pictured, right, with Veolia driver Edvinas Karciauskas and loader Martin Czechowicz in front of a truck filled with rubbish, including three mattresses, which had been collected in just a few hours in Tottenham Hale.

THREE YEARS FOR TOBACCO RACKET

Sentenced: Hua Tang Chen, left, was jailed for three years and his girlfriend Cui Wang received a five-year sentence in her absence after going on the run

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A TOTTENHAM man who master-minded a multi-million-pound counterfeit tobacco production racket with his girlfriend has been jailed for three years.

Hua Tang Chen, 40, of High Road, Tottenham, was sentenced at Snaresbrook Crown Court on Friday.

His 32-year-old girlfriend, Cui Wang, was sentenced to five years in her absence after going on the run.

The pair were behind two illegal tobacco processing plants in Chingford, east London, and Manchester and the smuggling and distribution of illicit tobacco estimated to have cost the taxpayer more than £1million a week in unpaid excise duty to the government.

Tang Chen was caught by Revenue and Customs investigators unloading boxes of counterfeit packaging and duty stamps at his girlfriend's home in Barking, east London, in April this year.

A few minutes later, a delivery vehicle arrived containing 105,800 non-UK duty paid cigarettes concealed in air filters. A search of his flat uncovered £20,000 in used £20 notes.

In a separate raid on the same day, Customs officers uncovered machinery used to process raw tobacco in a garage Wang rented in Chingford. They also found three tonnes of processed hand-rolling tobacco.

At the same time a Customs raid on a house in Failsworth, Manchester, discovered a further processing plant, as well as nearly two tonnes of raw tobacco.

Three illegal Chinese workers who were living in the house later admitted the fraudulent evasion of excise duty and were each sentenced to six months in prison in June this year.

The duty and taxes evaded on all the goods seized totalled £1.2m.

Cui Wang had been arrested at home before the raids in London and Manchester were carried out. Tang Chen had pleaded guilty to fraudulent evasion of excise duty at Snaresbrook Crown Court in April.

"Hua Tang Chen and Cui Wang were overseeing a huge operation, flooding the streets of the UK with illicit tobacco with absolutely no regard to the potential harm such criminal acts cause to individuals, communities and legitimate businesses," said Chris Gill, assistant director of Revenue and Customs' fraud investigation service.

"We urge anyone with information about people dealing in illicit cigarettes or tobacco, or the whereabouts of Cui Wang, to contact our 24-hour hotline on 0800 59 5000," he added.

Town hall set for restoration

A HONG KONG-based property consortium looks set to be Haringey Council's preferred bidder to restore Hornsey Town Hall to its former glory.

A shortlist of six potential partners to develop and secure the future of the 1930s' grade II listed art deco building, in The Broadway, Crouch End, has been whittled down to one.

Far East Consortium International Ltd, which is registered in the Cayman Islands, together with its subsidiary Dorsett Hospitality and CoPlan Estates Ltd, was due to be recommended when the council's cabinet met to make a decision last night (Tuesday).

The consortium has property interests as well as a hotels across China, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand and the United Kingdom and has undergone a rigorous selection process to satisfy the council. Its scheme proposes restoring and retaining large parts of the architecturally important town hall, including its theatre, for community use.

The east and west wings of the building will be converted into boutique hotels with new homes being built at the back.

The consortium has already been in discussions with ANA Arts Project Ltd to develop an arts centre on the site.

The council will sell the town hall to the consortium, if appointed, and it will then be restored and leased back to the local authority on a long lease. Work could begin as early as autumn next year.

"Hornsey Town Hall plays a very special role in the heart of Crouch End's community and we are committed to securing its future for generations to come," said Alan Strickland, cabinet member for housing, regeneration and planning.

Young friends: Rebecca with some of the Ugandan orphans

Food for thought: Nursery school youngsters

Ugandan trip 'a real eye-opener'

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A GIRL GUIDE has gained the movement's highest honour after a completing a series of adventurous challenges including caring for orphans in an east African village.

Rebecca Jenner, 23, of Titchfield Road, Enfield Lock, has been awarded the prestigious Queen's Guide Award.

She is leader of the 16th Enfield Guides and assistant leader of Enfield Brownies, both of whom meet in St George's Parish Hall, in Hertford Road, Freezywater.

To achieve the award she had to accomplish a series of tasks aimed at equipping her with new skills and improving her personal development.

Her most rewarding challenge was her trip last year in May to Rukungiri, in Uganda, where she volunteered for two weeks to help orphans with the Christian charity Bridge of Hope.

Rebecca travelled with a group of eight volunteers from the charity which supports orphaned children in poverty-stricken parts of Uganda.

"Volunteering in Uganda was amazing and it was an eye-opening experience to realise what we have here – we really take it for granted," she said.

During her trip she met a four-year-old boy who needed financial support and now sponsors him to help with day-to-day costs such as food and school fees.

Rebecca and her family have clubbed together to fund a kitchen for his family, who had only basic cooking facilities when she visited.

"The family were so pleased to find out they will soon have a kitchen in their home and it is lovely we could help," said Rebecca.

Other challenges Rebecca accomplished included learning ballet and tap dancing in just a year.

She also gained her pack holiday licence, which she passed after organising a weekend trip for 25 Brownies at an outdoor activity centre in Edgware.

Rebecca was presented with the Queen's Guide Award by Chief Guide Valerie Le Vaillant at a special ceremony at the House of Commons last month.

"I'm overjoyed," she added. "It's really nice to be an inspiration and a role model to the younger Brownies."

"I learned so many new life skills for the award and after all the hard work I put in it is a great relief to have achieved it. I am really proud."

Watch out for roofing crooks

HOMEOWNERS have been warned by Enfield Council to beware of con-men offering to clear guttering after a spate of cases has left residents fleeced out of hundreds of pounds for unnecessary roofing work.

Trading standards officers are investigating areas where the tricksters have been operating in Bush Hill Park, Enfield Lock, Palmers Green and Winchmore Hill.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, said: "We want to catch these villains before they con anyone else out of any money."

Free child seat safety checks

FREE safety checks for child car seats are being offered by Enfield Council at Asda supermarket, in Chase Side, Southgate next Tuesday (October 25).

Council officers will be giving demonstrations between 10am and 2pm on how to correctly fit car and booster seats for children under four feet tall to ensure they travel safely on the road.

Tuck in, chaps: Maggie Westland, Clare Rogers and Claire Brady hand out bacon rolls

This breakfast's streets better...

WORKMEN digging up the A105 Green Lanes in Winchmore Hill in preparation for cycle lanes were served bacon rolls, tea and pastries as they took their break on Friday morning.

The gesture by a group of parents was their way of saying "thank you" for the bike lanes – which it's fair to say have not been universally popular since the council gave them the thumbs-up as part of its Cycle Enfield scheme.

It was the idea of Palmers Green residents Clare Rogers, Claire Brady and Maggie Westland, who belong to Better Streets for Enfield, a group calling for fewer car-dominated and more people-friendly streets in the borough.

They also displayed a homemade "Thank You" banner made by their children.

"We wanted to show our support," said Clare, who has two daughters aged 13 and nine.

"We are very excited about the difference the Cycle Enfield scheme will make to our kids."

Her views were echoed by Maggie who brought along her seven-month-old baby son William.

"I think people find the idea of change difficult, especially if they're older," she said, "but this is the future. I'm delighted my children will be able to cycle safely. I want to be less reliant on the car, especially on the school run."

The cycle lanes and traffic-calming measures along the A105 are expected to be completed early next year, while the overall Cycle Enfield scheme is scheduled to be finished in two years' time.

Henry answers call of the wild

Vet student's African adventure

By Ciaran McGrath

ciaran.mcgrath@nlhnews.co.uk

VETERINARY student Henry Mosey swapped cats and dogs for monkeys, crocodiles and lions during a three-week placement at a wildlife rescue centre in Africa.

Henry, 23, of Kerry Close, Palmers Green, who is in his fifth year of Veterinary Medicine at the Royal Veterinary College, in Porters Bar, travelled to Lilongwe Wildlife Centre, in Malawi, to offer a helping hand to the centre, which cares for sick and injured animals as well as monitoring the overall health of wild populations.

He said: "There wasn't really a typical day – each one was different. Every morning we'd see if anything came into the clinic which needed to be treated, mainly monkeys."

During his time in Lilongwe, Henry helped treat animals including orphaned vervet monkeys and a baby jackal.

The aim was to treat the animals before releasing them back into the wild, Henry, a former pupil of The Latymer School, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, explained – although this was not always possible.

For example, Bella, a one-eyed lioness, is a permanent fixture at the centre (and something of a mascot) because her chances of surviving outside captivity would be slim.

Other full-time residents at the centre included Bella's soulmate Simba, Bushdog the crocodile, a python (also called Henry), a yellow baboon called Alf and Chorley, a serval cat.

Meanwhile, Henry got a chance to admire hippopotamuses (at a respectful distance) during a safari in neighbouring Zambia.

The whole experience left him wanting more – and Henry, who graduates next summer, is already considering a return once he qualifies.

He explained: "It expanded my knowledge a great deal. It's definitely made me consider the possibility of working as a wildlife vet in Africa. I'd like to go back there again as a fully qualified vet."

You gotta roll with it

ALL rise for an Enfield baking duo who were crowned winners at the World Bread Awards with their "multigrain bloomer".

Husband and wife team Richard Copsey and Kate Smith scooped the prestigious award and also bagged a handful of other gongs at the Tiptree World Bread Awards last week.

They beat off competition from loaves sent in from around the United Kingdom – delivered by courier, taxi and in person on the morning of the judging at Cathedral Hall, in Westminster Cathedral, to ensure maximum freshness.

The bakers, who own Holtwhites Bakery & Deli, in Chase Side, Enfield, said they were delighted with the accolade.

Kate said: "We were absolutely thrilled with the award. It's great that it was for our most popular type of bread and it's also nice to be able to raise the profile of food in Enfield."

"We don't really have a secret – we use all good natural, organic ingredients, there's no rubbish in there, and add a bit of honey into our wholemeal bread, so maybe that's it!"

Their chocolate bread was runner-up in the speciality sweet category and their raisin and walnut sourdough was runner-up in the speciality savoury category. They got a gold award for their rosemary and sea salt focaccia and a bronze award for the Chase sourdough.

Holtwhites was initially a micro-bakery run from the couple's home, where they baked up to 100 loaves of bread each Friday night and sold them from the kitchen door on Saturday mornings.

In 2011, they left their "sensible" day jobs and opened Holtwhites.

'The most rewarding thing I've ever done'

Gill's verdict on her decision to adopt

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

JOY replaced heartache for Gill Spibey when she adopted a child after being told she was unable to have babies of her own.

And now the 55-year-old is at the forefront of a drive by Enfield Council in National Adoption Week to recruit "mums and dads" willing to give children in care a loving home.

Gill, of Silver Street, Enfield Town, knows just how rewarding the experience can be, having brought up 12-year-old Jasmine, whom she adopted when she was 13 months old.

Gill was unable to have a child naturally with her husband, suffering a number of miscarriages. Still desperate to start a family, they went down the adoption route.

"We wanted to give a child a home and we wanted a child to experience a good life," said Gill.

"You don't get any more joy than having a child. You watch them learn and develop and you live your life through them," she explained.

The council wants to raise awareness about the shortage of adoptive parents and are encouraging more people to consider adopting.

"I think some people shy away from adoption and may be daunted by it, but I think they need to speak to people with positive experiences," she continued.

She believes prospective applicants who feel unsure about adopting would gain an insight by talking with adoptive parents to learn about their experience.

Gill, who is now a single parent, said: "There have been challenging times, but becoming a mum has been the most rewarding thing I've done."

She has to play "good cop, bad cop" to put in place boundaries, just like any parent, but in doing so she believes her relationship with Jasmine has strengthened as a result.

"We have a strong bond and we get on particularly well and people see that. We have a nice relationship."

To apply to become an adoptive parent applicants need to be over the age of 21 and be able to provide a stable and safe home.

Regular information sessions are held across north London including in Enfield, as well as in Barnet, Camden, Haringey, Hackney and Islington, where would-be applicants can talk to social workers to find out more about adoption.

Councillor Ayfer Orhan, Enfield's cabinet member for education, children's services, protection and libraries, said that 80 children were successfully placed with families last year. By working together we can ensure prospective adopters benefit from our shared experience and are better placed to find a loving home for the vulnerable young people in our care," she said.

"This is a life-changing decision for all concerned. A stable home gives children the care, support and consistency that helps them in education and through life."

National Adoption Week runs until Sunday. To find out more about adoption, visit www.adoptionnorthlondon.co.uk

BENEFIT CAP

Your Housing Benefit or Universal Credit could be reduced – it is important that you ensure you can pay your rent.

Since April 2013 there has been a limit on the amount of working age benefits you can get. This means that if the total amount of working age benefits you and your partner receive is more than the cap level, your Housing Benefit or Universal Credit will be reduced. You will still need to pay your rent not covered by benefits from your own income.

How is the Benefit Cap level changing?

From 7 November 2016 the Benefit Cap limit will be lowered.

Household	Existing Benefit Cap level	Benefit Cap level from 7 November 2016*
Couples with or without children	£500 per week	£442.31 per week
Single people with children	£500 per week	£442.31 per week
Single people without children	£350 per week	£296.35 per week

*If the lower Benefit Cap level affects you for the first time, this will start from 9 January 2017.

Will the Benefit Cap changes affect me?

The Department of Work and Pensions (DWP) has written to everyone affected by the autumn changes to explain how your Housing Benefit payments may change. If you are already affected by the Benefit Cap, your Housing Benefit will reduce further and this will happen straight away. If the lower benefit cap level will affect you for the first time, your Housing Benefit or Universal Credit will reduce from 9 January 2017. You can use the government's online benefit calculator at www.gov.uk/benefit-cap to find out if the Benefit Cap changes in the autumn will affect you.

The Enfield Council website www.enfield.gov.uk has a range of support and advice. This includes benefits advice and information, housing advice, jobs and careers.

You can also sign up for an Enfield Connected account for easy access to council services, benefits and payments.

Borough is failing to help refugees, claims Burrowes

'Enfield must step up and deliver', says MP

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

TORY MP David Burrowes has accused Enfield Council leaders of sitting on their hands and doing nothing to help child refugees.

But cabinet member Ayfer Orhan rejected his claims – and urged him to “check his facts”.

Mr Burrowes' comments were made in parliament on Monday last week as he pressed Home Secretary Amber Rudd for assurances that 400 children with a legal right to live in the UK would be safely found a home before the imminent destruction of the Calais Jungle.

The MP for Enfield Southgate, who is vice-chairman of the all-party parliamentary group on refugees, told Ms Rudd that unless more was done to secure the safety of children at the camp, the Prime Minister's words about “standing up for the vulnerable” would be “just that – words”.

He pressed Ms Rudd to “provide assurance that all children eligible for transfer will be in place before demolition starts”.

Mr Burrowes also hit out at the council.

He said: “Despite signing a motion, welcoming refugees, Enfield has not provided any places under the vulnerable person's relocation scheme.”

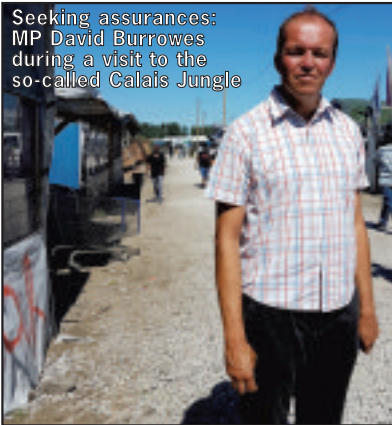

This was in “stark contrast”, he said, to other London boroughs including Camden, which has taken 30 child refugees, and Barnet, which has taken six.

Mr Burrowes added: “Enfield must step up and deliver on their commitment to take their fair share of vulnerable children who have a legal right to be in the UK.”

Conservative councillor Nick Dines echoed his sentiments. “It has been over a year since Labour councillors stood up and endlessly criticised the government for its stance on refugees and how much help was being offered,” he said.

But the council said Mr Burrowes was mistaken and should have checked his facts before speaking out in parliament. Ms Orhan, cabinet member for education, children's services and protection, said: “I am very disappointed that Mr Burrowes didn't check his facts with us first before speaking out in parliament.”

Seeking assurances: MP David Burrowes during a visit to the so-called Calais Jungle

“Enfield has taken a very high number of children seeking asylum. We have 70 in our care and a further 50 young people aged 18 to 21. So to say we are not taking our fair share is nonsense.”

“We would ask him to stop playing politics and roll up his sleeves and get on with the job in hand. “Once the government has sorted out the paperwork for the children at Calais, we are ready and waiting out to take many more.”

The Jungle camp at Calais is set to be demolished by the end of the year and its 9,000 inhabitants dispersed.

Charities working on the ground in Calais estimate that as many as 400 vulnerable unaccompanied child asylum seekers have family in the UK and are eligible to be resettled in Britain.

Football pays tribute after death of Tommy Lawrence

FOOTBALLER Tommy Lawrence, who played and managed Enfield FC, was fondly remembered this week by former fans of the defunct club as well as those of the present-day Enfield Town FC.

The 82-year-old, who has died from cancer, helped establish Enfield FC's dominance as one of the country's top amateur clubs in the 1960s.

He was the Southbury Road club's all-time leading goalscorer, making 204 appearances between 1959 and 1964 and scoring 196 goals, including eight hat-tricks.

His goalscoring prowess helped Enfield win the Athenian League in successive years between 1961 and 1963 and reach the 1964 Amateur Cup final for the first time in the club's first season in the Isthmian League.

Having already won 12 amateur England caps, his playing career was cruelly cut short that season when he suffered a fractured skull playing in an Olympic Games trial at Coventry City.

He was appointed manager of Enfield FC after a short spell as a coach in 1965 and during his time at the helm he led the club to two FA Amateur Cup final wins in 1967 and 1970 and three consecutive Isthmian League titles.

Player and manager: Tommy Lawrence

Two of Tommy's four children attended Enfield Town's Ryman Premier League match with Wingate and Finchley on Saturday when a minute's silence was held before the kick-off.

His daughter Judith, who was there with sister Charlotte, said: “Dad had great affection for the club. He was a talented player, but everything he achieved was through hard graft. It's a cliché, but he was a lovely man and really would help anyone out.”

Lifelong Enfield FC and Enfield Town fan Alan Medlock paid tribute, describing Tommy as arguably the club's best player and “certainly the most influential person” in the club's history.

His funeral will take place at Enfield Crematorium, Great Cambridge Road, next Wednesday (October 26) at 2.30pm and a post-funeral gathering will take place in Butler's Bar at Enfield Town's Queen Elizabeth Stadium, Donkey Lane, from 4pm.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate

Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges?

Did they really consider this?

I REFER to councillor Toby Simon's letter ("This had all the hallmarks of a pre-planned stunt", Advertiser, October 5) in which he tells us that "we [Labour] are always open to a well reasoned response before making a decision".

He was not present at the scrutiny meeting on September 8 called by me to review councillor Daniel Anderson's decision to implement the Cycle Enfield plans for the A105, so perhaps Mr Simon can be forgiven for thinking that his colleagues act in some kind of sanitised bubble where the "Queensbury Rules" are played out in full to the benefit of our residents. But then again, perhaps not because he used to chair the committee.

Perhaps he'd like to reflect on the following and then tell us whether the decision to confirm Mr Anderson's decision was the result of proper consideration of a reasoned response.

1) There were more than 1,600 objections to the statutory consultation which ran between July 6 and 29. The officers prepared their draft report on all the objections and sent it to Mr Anderson within eight working days. Anyone who knows the Civic Centre procedure for preparation and publication of reports will know that timescale allowed for scant, almost nil consideration of the objections. No matter, Mr Anderson seemingly considered all 1,600 and signed off the scheme in four days.

2) Freedom of information requests reveal that the bulk of the objections were received in the last four days of the consultation period. However, the same FOI request reveals somewhat bizarrely that no notes were made of any of the meetings between Mr Anderson and officers supposedly considering the objections.

When I did the same job, every single meeting with officers was minuted.

3) Perhaps most damning of all is the recently revealed evidence that just a few days into the consultation, the order was placed with the contractor for the work to begin. Clearly, Labour was very "open to a well reasoned response" – they didn't even have the wit to at least make some pretence at proper consideration!

Make your extra hour count this autumn

AS the days become shorter, it's a stark reminder that the end of another year is approaching – Halloween is nearly upon us and Guy Fawkes Night is just around the corner.

For families caring for a life-threatened or terminally ill child, these autumnal highlights can be a tough reminder that time is a luxury that cannot be taken for granted.

For these families every hour spent with their seriously ill child is precious beyond belief.

Rainbow Trust Children's Charity provides vital support for families caring for a seriously ill child.

Every family has its own dedicated family support worker who helps to make life a little easier for the family – at home, in hospital or in the community, so that the family can make the most of the time they have together.

I have been aware of Rainbow Trust for many years and believe the work it carries out with families is outstanding.

When the clocks go back on October 30, Rainbow Trust is calling on the public to use their extra hour wisely by taking part in its Big Hour Campaign.

The campaign encourages people to make their extra hour count by organising a 60-minute fundraiser.

I urge everyone to get involved with this wonderful campaign so that Rainbow Trust can support more families who have to face the frightening prospect that their child might not get better.

To find out more about Rainbow Trust's Big Hour Campaign, visit rainbowtrust.org.uk/big-hour or text RAINBOW to 70111 to make a £3 donation*.

It's up to all of us to tackle the fly-tippers

I CONSTANTLY read, whether in the locals or on social media, about how bad Enfield Council is in tackling this fly-tipping epidemic that we seem to be going through.

My neighbours will tell you I am pro-active in getting dumped rubbish moved from around my area, whether in my road or my locality it doesn't matter.

I often read of people who have witnessed perpetrators of this type of offence pull up in vehicles and offload all of their junk on to a verge, or into a lay-by, yet do nothing about it.

I understand it's difficult for people to approach these undesirables, but there aren't many of us without a mobile phone capable of taking pictures. Failing that, follow the time-honoured tradition of writing down a number plate. Report it, for it's not them who have to look out of their window at their rubbish...it's us!

I often ring the council or email my councillors and I have to say I have always found the service that comes and removes the offending pile of junk, sometimes within a couple of hours, an excellent one.

There's no point watching people or noticing rubbish first thing in the morning and then immediately blaming the council for its appearance. People dump rubbish when no one is looking, in alleys and quiet roads mostly. We need to report it to get it removed.

I know it's the moral duty of all of us to report this type of offence, but maybe we should start looking at it the same way we do benefit fraud.

To clear up other people's rubbish costs us all because it takes money that could be used elsewhere.

A couple of years ago photos were published in the local papers of fly-tippers in Carterhatch Road with the hope that anyone identifying the offenders and a successful prosecution could lead to a £50 reward.

Unfortunately, the pictures were at least a year old, but maybe the council should consider that type of campaign again and offer some reward whether in monetary form, or a deduction in council tax. Perhaps we could then start to put an end to the lazy individuals who just want to blight our communities rather than doing things like the respectful majority.

PRO-ACTIVE LOCAL BUSINESS GROUP

Following the Brexit vote many businesses wonder what's in store for them after Brexit comes into effect. Well, local business group BNI Vision has decided to take matters into its own hands and is going International, by connecting with their foreign counterparts, making sure to keep the relationship going.

On Friday 16th September, BNI Vision had the pleasure of welcoming to Enfield a BNI group from the second largest city in Lithuania, Kaunas, with the intention of building contacts within Europe.

Next up was Paris, France. BNI Vision members travelled to Paris to meet with the Proximité Chapter who are based in Courbevoie, the town Enfield is twinned with, helping to bolster ties with our closest neighbours.

Two weeks later, another French Chapter came to visit Enfield.

With these overseas opportunities,

Vision should generate £5,500,000 worth of business for its members and the local community, in the next twelve months, whilst at the same time helping the UK's export drive. Money generated by Vision will go round the local community seven times, making a whopping total of £38,500,000.

BNI Vision is no stranger to being a good host, as during the last few years they have not only been visited by many local professional businesses but also by several leading members of the Government, including Michael Gove

MP, David Burrows MP, Nick De Bois MP and London MEP Marina Yannadoudakis.

Whilst doing business is Vision's primary focus, they are also keen to work within the local community, entering a team for charity in the 'It's a Knockout' tournament and various other social and sporting events. Vision also regularly supports two local nominated charities, The Nightingale Cancer Support Centre and Noah's Ark Children's Charity.

Your race hope isn't over yet

MANY people across London are feeling disappointed at missing out on the 2017 London Marathon ballot.

If you have your heart set on running the Virgin Money London Marathon in April 2017, you can apply for a charity place and run to help disadvantaged children.

The Children's Society supports children and young people dealing with hardship, abuse and neglect and every penny raised by our runners will help to transform the lives of the UK's most vulnerable children.

It's easy to apply and we provide support every step of the way including a training day, help with fundraising, online forums, cheering you along on the day and a sports massage and celebration afterwards.

Firm is stripped of HGV licence

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A CASH and carry firm in Edmonton has lost its vehicle operating licence after a traffic commissioner said it was "grossly irresponsible" and put the safety of other road users "at risk".

Traffic Commissioner Nick Denton said Upper Edmonton-based Denar Ltd "did not bother to find out" about the onerous requirements for driving HGVs.

Revoking the HGV licence, Mr Denton said after a public inquiry: "The company's approach to operating HGVs has been wholly irresponsible."

He also banned company director Ahmet Sezgin from holding an HGV licence for three years.

Mr Denton ruled: "Such a period is necessary to mark the seriousness of embarking on HGV operations without any thought at all as to what this involved and without at any stage in the two-year life of the licence attempting to find out."

"The result was that vehicles were driven by drivers with no entitlement to drive them, and were driven by drivers who were often not using tachograph cards and were not taking proper weekly rest.

"The safety of other road users was put at risk."

A Driver and Vehicle Standards Agency investigation launched in May discovered that the Eley Road-based company had never downloaded data from the digital tachograph despite holding a restricted goods vehicle operator's licence since 2014.

There was no system for analysing the data or identifying drivers' infringements, the investigation found.

The agency discovered a catalogue of drivers' hours offences, including failure to take a weekly rest and driving for more than four-and-a-half hours.

Mr Denton said: "The company had almost no knowledge of an HGV operator's legal responsibilities. The company was simply operating its five tonne vehicle in the same way as it was operating its 3.5 tonne vehicles."

Mr Sezgin did not attend the public inquiry in Eastbourne, East Sussex, as he had proposed surrendering the HGV licence.

'Irresponsible': Denar Ltd's premises in Eley Road

Mr Sezgin told the Advertiser he has now sold the van.

"We were not really familiar with the whole system," he said.

He advised people: "If you hold an operator's licence which is above 3.5 tonnes make sure you have clear training and understand all the regulations and systems that are in place before taking the van on to the road."

MP Ryan launches campaign for extra GPs

ENFIELD MP Joan Ryan is putting pressure on the government to increase the number of GPs in the borough.

The Labour MP for Enfield North has launched a campaign calling for at least another 84 GPs in Enfield by 2020.

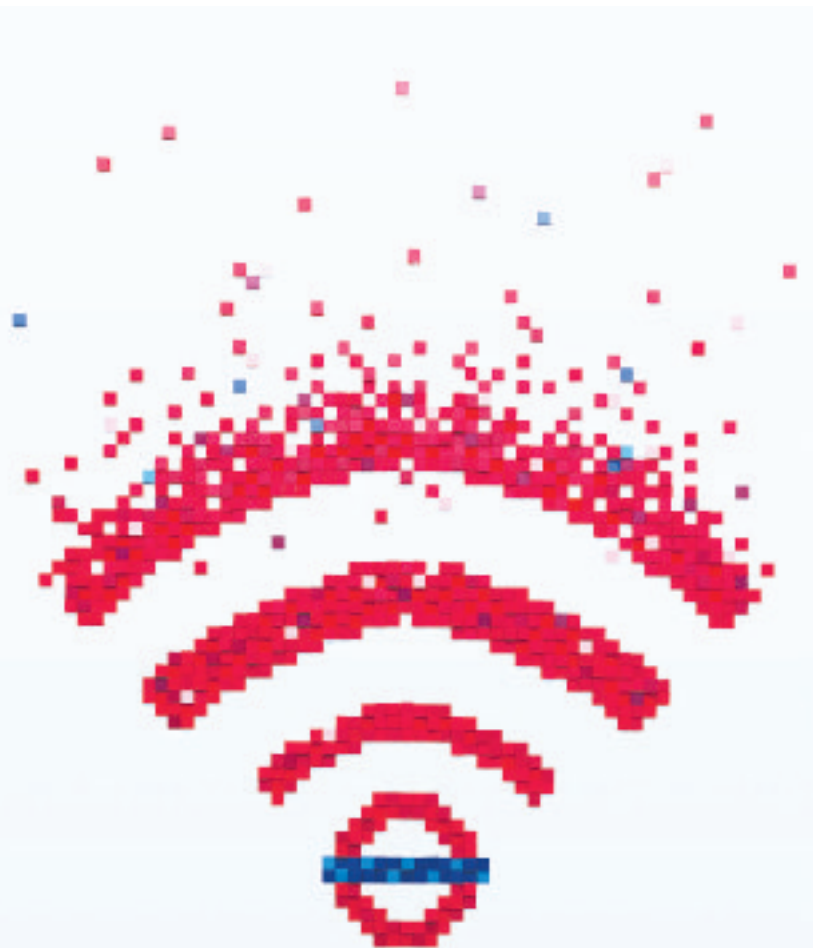

Over the last six years, 12 doctors' surgeries in Enfield have closed and only one new practice has opened.

Ms Ryan said: "When the government was axing Chase Farm Hospital's accident and emergency department, David Cameron, said, 'Enfield is getting an increase in primary care funding. That is part of our plan of not cutting but expanding our NHS'.

"The facts speak for themselves and right now people in Enfield who need to see a GP are facing an acute appointments crisis. We desperately need more GPs in Enfield and better funding for and better management of our local health services.

"My petition and survey will be a really useful means to engage and work together with the community on this important issue and to show the government the strength of our desire to protect vital primary care services."

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mixing it with the stars: Billy Ritchie

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Billy Whizz

Memoirs recall band's brush with the big time

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FAMED as the man who introduced Jimi Hendrix and David Bowie, Enfield's very own godfather of rock Billy Ritchie has published his life story.

The ABC of 1-2-3 was published last week, causing a flurry of excitement throughout the music industry.

It details the ups and downs of 1-2-3, one of the earliest bands to play a form of inventive rock music that became a blueprint for what would later be called "prog rock".

Mr Ritchie, a father-of-three, originally from Scotland, moved to London when the band hit the big time and set up home in Brigadier Hill, Enfield, in the late 1960s.

He taught himself piano after a neighbour threw one out on the street and is generally acknowledged as being the first keyboard player in rock music to put his piano on stilts and stand up. "We jammed with them all - Jimi Hendrix, Pink Floyd, the Bee Gees, Lulu - but we were always on the verge of something that never quite happened," said Mr Ritchie, 72.

"We toured all over America, Canada and Europe in our heyday, but it's a funny old industry. One week you're up and the next you're down and you're always looking for that high, which is why a lot of musicians turn to drink and drugs."

The band's set consisted of standard pop and blues songs, but in Mr Ritchie's hands they were reshaped and rewritten to become "something new".

"There was nothing like it around," he added. "People used to ask who my influences were, but it all came from me. I didn't even have a record player. I never used to listen to music, other than Bach!"

He rewrote versions of songs by Bowie - I Dig

Everything - and Paul Simon - America, The Sounds of Silence - both completely unknown at that time and 1-2-3 were signed by Brian Epstein, but following his death they were sidelined in favour of the Bee Gees.

They were then signed to the Ellis-Wright Agency and the most commercially successful period of the band's career began, under the new name of Clouds.

Major tours, three albums and single releases followed, but real success proved elusive and the band broke up in October 1971.

Mr Ritchie recalled: "I wanted out of the band, I'd had enough, but I didn't want to tell the others that because I knew there'd have to be a lot of discussion and I couldn't be bothered with it."

"So at the end of a gig at Stoke-on-Trent I jumped on the organ and literally rode it off the stage. Then I just left and refused to talk to any of them."

Court case councillor is expelled by Labour

Now Erbil says he is considering resignation

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUNCILLOR under fire for receiving a second criminal conviction in two years has been slung out of the Labour Party.

Nesimi Erbil has been sitting as an independent Labour member of Enfield Council since he was suspended last year after his first conviction in 2014 came to light.

He was told that he would be expelled for five years after a Labour hearing on Wednesday last week. He is now considering whether to resign as a councillor.

The Lower Edmonton ward councillor told the Advertiser that he would be meeting community groups and members in his ward to hear their views before making a final decision.

"I want to resign as a councillor" he said.

Mr Erbil, a black cab driver has sat on the council benches as an independent Labour member since he was suspended by the Labour group following his conviction for fraudulently doctoring his suburban taxi licence four months after he was elected in May 2014.

Last week's expulsion came after the 47-year-old received a six-week suspended prison sentence by Highbury Corner magistrates in September after he was convicted of public order offence for swearing at an off-duty policeman who had pulled him over for allegedly using a mobile phone.

Magistrates also handed down fines and costs totalling £1,045 at the hearing on September 22.

Mr Erbil had previously received a four-week sentence suspended for a year at Southwark Crown Court for doctoring his suburban taxi licence so it allowed him to take passengers across London, rather than just the four boroughs for which he was licensed for.

Mr Erbil, of Nightingale Road, Edmonton, joined Labour as a teenager and has been a member for 30 years.

"I want to resign, but I want to talk to members," he added.

Terry Neville, who leads the Conservative group on the council, said the expulsion was "long overdue".

"It must be a matter of some surprise to most

On his way out: Nesimi Erbil was elected to Enfield Council two years ago people that it's taken them so long to deal with this situation," he said and renewed calls for Mr Erbil to resign as a councillor.

"He should resign," added Mr Neville. "There should be an election because he has not got a mandate to sit there."

The Labour Party said it did not comment on the status of individual members.

Mr Erbil's convictions do not warrant disqualification from office under UK law. That only applies to those sentenced to three months or more in prison.

AN Enfield man involved in an organised drugs network which smuggled heroin and cocaine into the UK from Europe has been jailed for seven years.

Aydin Aziz, 45, of The Ridgeway, was arrested with Omar Assaf, 35, in April after they abandoned the vehicle they were travelling in having rammed a police car which had tried to stop them.

Minutes earlier they had collected an orange carrier bag containing two kilograms of heroin and two kilograms of cocaine from the home of 45-year-old Debbie Reid in St Albans, Hertfordshire.

Earlier that day she had travelled back from France via the Channel tunnel at Folkestone. Officers from the Met Police's Specialist Crime and Operations Command had been keeping her under surveillance.

It had been Reid's third journey to France in the space of a month. On the previous journey she had met Assaf on her way back to St Albans, but on the afternoon of April 6 she did not meet anyone returned straight to her home and was seen to remove the orange carrier bag from her car.

Drug-smuggling trio jailed

At the same time, Assaf left his home in Wembley, north-west London, to collect Aziz and the two drove to Reid's address, where she was seen to hand Assaf the orange carrier bag containing the drugs.

All three were arrested and charged with conspiracy to import class A drugs.

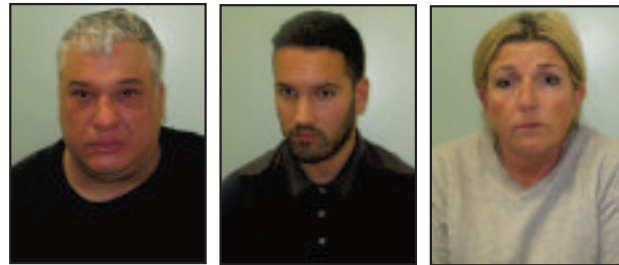

Reid pleaded guilty on May 6 at Harrow Crown Court. Assaf admitted the same charge at the same court on August 31 and Aziz pleaded guilty there on October 3.

At the same court on Thursday, Aziz and Assaf were both sentenced to seven years with Reid receiving six years and eight months.

"Debbie Reid, as the importer, was central to this network, with Omar Assaf and Aydin Aziz responsible for the onward distribution of the drugs," said Det Con Andrew Walker, of the Specialist Crime Command.

"Reid was seen to blatantly smuggle the drugs in a carrier bag making no attempt to hide them.

"This police operation has successfully dismantled a network of sophisticated criminals, who, despite making use of encrypted mobile devices, did not manage to evade capture," he added.

MPs blast probe into pregnancy test drug

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A MUM who has spent decades campaigning for a full inquiry into the effects of a hormonal pregnancy testing drug was in parliament last week as MPs slammed an investigating panel's lack of progress, calling it a complete "whitewash".

Dubbed the "forgotten Thalidomide", Primodos was a drug given to women in the 1960s and 1970s to establish pregnancy – and many believe it caused damage and deformity in thousands of babies worldwide.

Miscarriages, cerebral palsy, brain damage and children being born without limbs were some of the alleged side-effects.

Chris Gooch, 68, of Carnarvon Avenue, Enfield, was given the pills in 1970.

Her daughter Emma, now 45, was born some months later with birth defects affecting fingers on both hands and her feet and toes.

Ms Gooch said: "I have no doubt that Primodos is responsible.

"Emma's fingers were affected and her toes and now she suffers chronic backache. She still manages to work, but is in constant pain.

"We want the truth and we are not going away."

An independent inquiry into the use of Campaigning: Chris Gooch, with her daughter Emma

the oral hormone pregnancy test set up in 2014 and has been dogged with criticism.

During last Thursday's debate, Labour MP Yasmin Qureshi told the House of Commons: "To have an inquiry which then becomes a complete whitewash is a waste of everyone's time and money and becomes pointless."

Labour MP Maria Eagle, a lawyer, said there was a familiar pattern to complaints about the suspected effects of Primodos.

She said: "The pattern includes a lack of warnings about effects, being called a fussy mother, denial of causality, the disappearance of medical records and outright hostility."

The drug was produced by Schering, a German company later taken over by Bayer, and was withdrawn in 1978.

Bayer denies that Primodos was responsible for causing any deformities in children.

A panel of independent experts, set up by the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency, has since been probing claims between links of birth defects and hormone pregnancy tests.

A spokesman for the agency said: "We believe the review is being carried out in a thorough and impartial manner and will take into account all available evidence in delivering a report. We will update people as soon as the group has reached a conclusion."

The report is due to be published early next year.

Swing low: The cast of Swinging at the Cotton Club perform at the Millfield Theatre, in Edmonton, next Wednesday

Love jazz? Join the Club

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

AMERICA'S prohibition era contributed far more to the cultural and historic landscape than bootleg liquor and mobsters with machine guns concealed in violin cases.

In the Roaring Twenties and the decade of the Great Depression which followed, New York's celebrated Cotton Club was the hottest ticket in town.

The Harlem nightclub's musical revues featured many talented legendary black entertainers.

Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, Count Basie, Fats Waller, Billie Holiday and Cab Calloway were among the musicians who had the club swinging – while dancers Bojangles Robinson and the Nicholas Brothers and other dancers lit up the stage with breathtaking routines.

And for one night next Wednesday, Edmonton's Millfield Theatre takes a trip back in time as the show Swinging At The Cotton Club recreates the magic and the spectacle of the famous hotspot.

The show evokes the crooners and hoofers of the swing and big band era and the memorable songs and popular dance crazes of the time.

The toe-tapping, finger-snapping tunes and the exhilarating, high-energy choreography are recreated by the fabulous Lindy Hop Dance Company and tap dancers, alongside the Harry Strutters Hot Rhythm Orchestra – featuring American vocalist Marlene Hill and compere and vocalist Megs Etherington.

Lindy hop was the original form of jive dancing and the UK's premier jazz dance troupe certainly get the joint jumping.

Stardust, God Bless the Child, Stormy Weather, Minnie the Mooch (hi-di-hi-di-hi-di-oh), The Wrong Keyhole and Won't You Come Home Bill Bailey are just some of the songs performed. There's even a breathtaking Charleston masterclass.

Whether you're nine or in your 90s the enthusiasm displayed by the vocalists, band and dancers is infectious and by the end of the two-hour show, most, if not all of the audience are guaranteed to be up on their feet clapping their hands and dancing in the aisles.

Joyful African adventure lights up the Dugdale Centre

Review: Rudi Rudi Africa, Love, Goat in the Pearl, Dugdale Centre, October 15

ONLY the most stony-faced of observers will have been left unmoved by this chaotic musical adventure, the latest in a series of borough-wide events being held to celebrate Black History Month.

For what it's worth, the plot was straightforward – a young woman goes on a journey to trace her African roots taking her, together with her mother and newly acquired Ugandan fiancé, to the so-called Pearl of Africa. She subsequently discovers that her father has passed away some years earlier, but is accepted into the community by his family and marries in a traditional Ugandan ceremony.

But the wafer-thin narrative took a backseat to the mesmerising choreography and music played on a variety of traditional instruments including marimbas, enangas, koras and drums.

The show was largely stolen by vibrant, vivid, highly energetic dancers and at the end the cast invited the audience to join them on the dance floor – and if your feet were not at least tapping by then, you truly had no joy in your heart.

This was a performance which it was impossible not to like and one which deserved a full house. Maybe this will be remedied with future productions.

Director Steve Kasamba took a bow at the end and gave a touching speech in which he thanked the cast, dancers, musicians and crew for bringing the show to life.

In con-troll of the situation

Trolls (U) 90 mins.

CRAMMED to bursting with toe-tapping pop ditties courtesy of Simon & Garfunkel, Lionel Richie, Donna Summer and Justin Timberlake, Trolls is 92 minutes of glitter-dusted, computer-animated joy that is virtually impossible to resist.

Based on the fluffy-haired good luck trolls designed by Thomas Dam, which have inspired numerous fads since the early 1960s, Walt Dohrn and Mike Mitchell's musical misadventure unleashes a colour-saturated assault on the senses from the opening frames.

By the time Anna Kendrick's irrepressibly perky heroine launches into her opening song and dance number – a mash-up of Move Your Feet, D.A.N.C.E. and It's A Sunshine Day replete with elaborate hairgraphy – only the most stony-hearted curmudgeon will remain motionless in their seat.

In the brief moments the film does sit still, the script gently tugs heartstrings by promoting its messages of self-acceptance and inner fortitude, including an obvious yet poignant use of a Cyndi Lauper ballad to hammer home the idea that happiness comes from within, not from wealth or material possessions.

Once a year on the Trollstice, a race of disgruntled ogres called Bergens unlock their inner joy by feasting on shiny trolls.

King Gristle Sr (John Cleese) and his drooling head chef (Christine Baranski) lead the festivities, but the Bergens' reverie is cut short when the trolls, led by benevolent King Poppy (Jeffrey Tambor), escape to a new home. "I never got to eat a troll, what's going to make me happy now?" snivels young Prince Gristle Jr (Christopher Mintz-Plasse).

"Nothing," replies the king tersely.

Twenty years after the great escape, Princess Poppy (Kendrick) has succeeded as ruler of the trolls, who sing, dance, enjoy group hugs and feverishly glue felt and paper into their scrapbooks.

Everyone except for eternal pessimist Branch (Justin Timberlake), who lives in a Bergen-proof subterranean bunker crammed with 10 years of rations.

When the Bergen Chef discovers the new troll village and captures several of Poppy's friends, including zen master Creek (Russell Brand) and Biggie (James Corden), the princess pleads with Branch for assistance.

"Why don't you try scrapbooking them to freedom?" he responds meanly.

Overcoming their initial differences, Poppy and Branch embark on a daredevil rescue mission to the Bergen castle, where they play matchmakers to Prince Gristle Jr and scullery maid Bridget (Zoëy Deschanel).

Trolls shimmies and sways like an animated version of Pitch Perfect, relentlessly plundering contemporary songbooks to verbalise characters' emotions.

Kendrick's vocal performance fizzles and she gels wonderfully with Timberlake as the downbeat voice of reason.

Admittedly, Jonathan Aibel and Glenn Berger's screenplay is simplistic and the trolls' and Bergens' journeys of self-discovery are largely linear.

While Trolls might be lacking sophistication and cute in-jokes, it bursts with whizz-popping energy.

It's the cinematic equivalent of a mouth crammed to bursting with popping candy.

Barnfields
Estate Agents & Chartered Surveyors

ESTATE AGENT v ONLINE AGENT

Online agents have been trying to break into the London property sales market over the last few years, as far as Enfield is concerned without much success.

Although they will offer to sell your property for a lot less in fees, you have to pay them whether your property is sold or not!

For this fee your property will be placed on the online portal but that's about all...

No... Local advertising as we do in this paper

No... Window display in a prominent busy location

No... Personal knowledge of your property / amenities

No... Experience of selling similar properties in your location

No... Word of mouth sales

No... Interest in what you are hoping to purchase

No... Liaison with other agents / solicitors in chain situations

No... Chartered surveyor for professional advice (as offered by BARNFIELDS)

No... Employment of local people. We have sales team of 8+

No... IMMEDIATE ACCOMPANIED VIEWINGS WITH 'HOT' BUYERS

No... one to fight your case if there are problems

AND YOU WILL STILL HAVE TO PAY THE FEE IF THEY FAIL TO SELL YOUR PROPERTY!

Recent reports suggest that 25 million pounds worth of fees have been spent by vendors without achieving a sale through online agents.

Traditional Estate Agents work on a no sale no fee basis and negotiate the highest possible price for your property.

A MISSED CHANCE

Late leveller: Dele Alli's goal rescued a point for Tottenham at West Bromwich Albion

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

DELE ALLI admits that Tottenham Hotspur need to be more clinical in front of goal after they squandered the opportunity to go top of the Premier League on Saturday.

With leaders Manchester City being held by Everton, victory for Spurs at West Bromwich Albion would have seen them reach the summit for the first time this season.

But, despite dominating for much of the game, Tottenham were unable to turn their pressure into goals and ultimately needed a late strike from Alli to rescue a point as the match finished 1-1.

"When you are dominating a team that much you can lose focus at certain moments," the midfielder said. "They had a couple of chances and put one of them away.

"It was a good performance, but we have to make sure we win those games. You have to have faith in yourself, keep believing and sticking to the game-plan and hope when the chance does come that one of you will put it away.

"It's a hard place to come to. West Brom really do work together, but we felt we should have won. Thankfully I got the goal, but more importantly we got a result and we're still unbeaten.

"It shows the belief we have in the team, we didn't give up, we didn't stop until the final whistle and even when we finally scored we tried to get a second goal straight after. We kept fighting and kept working for each other."

Alli added: "It's not easy to play against any team that sits back, soaks up pressure and looks to counter-attack, and West Brom are a good team.

"I felt we dominated from the start and had a lot of chances, and it's another case of needing to be more clinical. You have to give a lot of credit to Ben Foster [West Brom keeper] as well. He played really well, but on another day it could have been four."

And manager Mauricio Pochettino admitted to having mixed emotions about the contest – with his satisfaction at the performance contrasting with his frustration at the outcome.

"We feel a little disappointed," he said. "I think we were much better, but in football you need to score.

"In the first half we managed the game and created chances but if you don't open the scoring, a team like West Brom is dangerous from set-pieces and that's how we conceded the goal.

"The character we showed after that was fantastic so I'm happy with the performance but disappointed with the result.

"It's always important to show character and belief. It's important to congratulate the players because the effort was fantastic."

Ten-man Borough seal battling draw

TEN-MAN Haringey Borough twice came from behind to secure a 2-2 draw at home to Witham Town in Ryman League Division One North on Saturday.

After a relatively even opening to the match, Borough were desperately unlucky not to take the lead when Nana Asamoah's shot hit the inside of the post – but they then found themselves at a numerical disadvantage as Adrian Markus saw red on 35 minutes for what was deemed to be a dangerous tackle.

Despite going a man down, Borough held their own until the 62nd minute when Nathan Korahnteng fired the visitors into the lead from the spot.

The hosts refused to lie down, and they grabbed an equaliser ten minutes later as Aaron Scott met a corner with a thumping header into the net.

They were only on level terms for eight minutes though as Lance Atkins restored Witham's lead with a virtually identical headed goal from a corner.

Still Borough continued to fight and they got their reward three minutes from time when Rakim Richards smashed the ball in from close range after Ralston Gabriel's initial header had crashed against the frame of the goal.

The hosts could even have snatched victory in stoppage time as Asamoah found himself through on goal, but he was thwarted by a fine save from the Witham keeper and the points were shared.

However, there was disappointment for Borough on Monday night as they lost 2-0 at home to AFC Hornchurch.

Abi Seymour put the visitors ahead on 29 minutes before Leon McKenzie sealed their victory by adding a second in stoppage time.

Haringey Borough make the trip to Cheshunt on Saturday (3pm).

Spurs waiting for Alderweireld scans

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR manager Mauricio Pochettino is optimistic that Toby Alderweireld will be able to make a rapid return to action.

The key central defender was carried off with a leg injury during Spurs' Premier League draw at West Bromwich Albion on Saturday and there were fears that he would be sidelined for some time.

However, although the club are still waiting for results of scans to come through, Pochettino is hopeful that the Belgian international will not be out for long – while he gave his backing to Eric Dier, who was expected to fill in for Alderweireld in the heart of their defence during last night's Champions League clash at Bayer Leverkusen.

"We don't have the results of the scan, but we believe it's not a big issue," he said. "He took a very heavy knock on his leg and now we need to wait for the results.

"The scan was on Monday afternoon and we'll see after that.

"The important thing is we trust Eric – we trust his personality and his skill. It's not important the position he will play, we believe and trust in him. For me Eric is a player who can develop his game in different positions."
